DYNAMIC EDUCATIONAL TECH CONFERENCE SEEKS INSPIRING PRESENTERS

August 15, 2002, Sacramento, CA

TechEd Events, a program of the Sacramento-based The Community College Foundation invites the education community and technology industry to submit presentation proposals for its seventh annual Technology in Education International Conference & Exposition to be held March 24-26, 2003 in sunny Ontario, California.

TechEd Ontario is seeking inspiring presenters to share with educators from around the world their knowledge, experience, and successful practices in teaching and learning. Presentations emphasizing pioneering ways of delivering education in a learner-centered environment are key to fulfilling the needs of the TechEd audience. The theme of this year's TechEd conference is "It's all about learning!"

TechEd's goal is to provide quality, pioneering information and hands-on experience which motivate educators to expand their methods of delivering education and eliminate ineffective teaching and learning environments through the effective uses of technology, learning communities, diverse learning styles, collaborative partnerships, and innovative administrative practices.

Educators from community, two- and four-year colleges, K-12 schools, and universities attend TechEd each year in search of new information and skills to enhance and transform learning within their institutions. Known as the largest hands-on event of its kind, the TechEd conference features hundreds of computer lab workshops, break-out sessions, symposiums, roundtables, intensive pre-conference sessions and an expansive exhibit floor featuring technology solutions from the world's leading hi-tech companies. Renowned keynote speakers offer further insight into cutting-edge technology solutions and revolutionary educational practices.

Presentation proposals for TechEd Ontario are being accepted online at www.TechEdEvents.org until Tuesday, October 8, 2002.
